AND THERE ARE SO MANY THINGS TO SEL!

This year's Atlantic is a better gasoline-still farther ahead among motor fuels-because Atlantic engineering keeps moving with the progress of automobile construction and operating conditions.

Atlantic represents the most modern refining methods, the latest laboratory discoveries, every possible improvement the most searching operating tests can suggest.

The result is that today's Atlantic is finer in balance. higher in calorific units, more complete in combustion. It is a more powerful motor gasoline, and absolutely correct for use in present-day motors.

Compare Atlantic with any other, gasoline. Note how eagerly it takes the spark when starting; how little popping and sputtering when warming up. Observe its quick action on the getaway, its sure-footed pull on the pickup, its dogged determination on the hills.

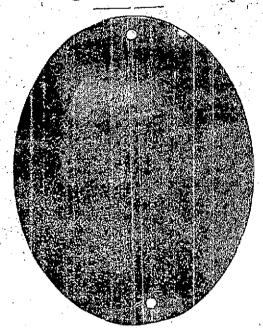

And in the sustained test-watch the fuel knocks disappear, othe carbon accumulations diminish, the mileage increase. Then you'll be fully convinced that there is no other gasoline just lil . Atlantio.

Canadian Mounted Police Corporal Returns From Arctic With 2 Eskimo Murderers.

PATROLLED CORONATION GULF

Expects to Return to Solltude After Short Heliday at Home—Punish-ment of Criminals Makes Natives Respect White Man's Law.

Montreal.—In May, 1915, Corporal Cornelius of the Royal Northwest mounted police left Edmonton for Herschel Island. He departed quietly, without any flourish of trumpets. He returned the other day to civilization again for the first time, as silently as he had left it. Over six years of his life has been spent in the Arctic wilderness, four of them in the sole company of two Eskimo murdeters, sentenced in 1914, and freed by order of the government later.

Two years were passed at Fort Mc-Pherson, where the big supply of provisions and building material were disposed, comfortable winter quarters established, and patrols of the surrounding country undertaken.

tablished, and patrols of the surfoading country undertaken.

The two Eskimo murdeners who were taken out by the corporal and officed their freedom were so much taken with the ways of the white man that they asked permission to enter the engaged, much to their delight. They tendered great service as guides and interpreters, and the white man's law interpreters, and the white man's law has never had a better advortisement in the Arctic circle than that given to it by these two men, tried, punished and released by its officials as a warn-

Two Years in Wilde. Two Years in Wilds.

In 1917 Corporal Cornelius was joined by Constible Brockle and the two set out for Herschel island where they spent two years with frequent patrols in the far corners of the undented wilds. Their next move was along the shores of the Arctle to Coronation guil. a dog-sled trip of some 800 miles, where another two years were passed in patrols to Bathurst inlet, Kent peninsula. All points on the south and west sides of Victoria Island to Victoria Land and Prince Albert sound, were made during that period.

distance of 1,300 miles being covered. The total patrols by dog sled last winter ran around 2,500 miles.

New headquarters were made at Fort Epworth, the patrol, accompanied by Staff Sergeant Clay, establishing this post. The party lived in snow buts for the greater part of this time, and subsisted on the simple diot of the wilds eked out by such rations as they were able to carry on sleds. They they were able to carry on sleds. They built a wooden but at Fort Epworth, however, and enjoyed a mild taste of civilization.

Two Are Acquitted. Two Are Acquitted.

In 1918, two alleged Estime murderors were brought in by the coust route by Sergeant Conway. These two men, Kuyugana and Komuk, had heartled by Inspector Phillips for the murder of an Eskimo woman, whom both of them claimed as wife. They were, however, acquitted, owing to lack of englance, and Clay. Cornelius and evidence, and Clay. Cornellus and Brockle took them back by way of Herschel island and the Arctle to Coromersone: Island and the Arctic to Core nation gulf, where the two were al-lowed to rejoin their titles. Corporal Cornelius says that the trial of the four Eskimos had bad an trial of the four Eskinos had had an excellent effect on the general conduct of the tribes as a whole, while conduct of the four principals has been most exemplary. Kayngann and Komuk were seen agreed times on later patrols, their blinds being usually found, on the ice at the head of the Coppernine river, and each time the patrol received a warm welcome.

THE SOISSON.

If you don't want to miss a snappy, well directed and excellently acted feature picture, be sure and visit the Scisson tonight, where David Butter bolds full sway in his latest and what bolds full sway in his latest and what well might be termed greatest screen presentation. "Making the Grade." Young Butler has rapidly risen to the ranks of stardom and has long been a shiring light in the film firmament. His pictures have caused keen onloyment to fit miovers but "Making the Grade" outshines all of his previous screen endeavors by far and brings to the silver sheat a five real comedythe silver sheet a five real comedy-drama so chock full of snap and ginger that it will be very hard to duplicate. In some fortunate manner. David Butter seems to sense the pulse of the picture public. He has a hap-py faculty of giving the fans the sort of pictures they have been looking forward to and "Making the Grade" is certainly no exception to the case.

The glare of the studio lights set up on location confused him. and when the car swung to the right he headed directly for a telegraph pole. A warning from the director caused him to pull his machine to the left just in time to avert an accident. He cleared the pole by barely an inch brought his motor to a stop in a rut at the side of the road. The accident nocessitated retaking the scene "Short Skirts," will be shown Wednesday and Thursday.
